Did you Know?...

-- The only teams without a 100 point scorer were Virginia and Miami. Though, it should be noted that Miami's Barry Sanders was rested the last 3 weeks with 99 points.

-- Of the five positional categories, NJ had the top FFL point leader in 3 of them. QB, TE & K.

UPCOMING DRAFT PROTECTION PROCEDURE

Each team may protect up to 6 players.

Each protected player must have been on a roster from Week 11 thru Week 17.

At least 4 different FFL positions must be represented from teams choosing to protect at least 4 players. (QB, RB, WR, TE, K)

If a team chooses to protect its full allotment of 6 players, at least one must be considered a "prospect".

A "prospect" is defined as a player who started a combined 5 or fewer FFL games throughout the entire 17 week season.

Any team choosing not to protect 6 players must draft additional players following the last round of the upcoming draft.

1993 FFL NOTES

Please refer to the new rule book for 1993 procedures. They may have an impact on your draft and protection plan.

The protection rules for 1994 are slightly modified.

Chances are that all scoring regulations will remain status quo for the upcoming season.

For each teams convenience, I have enclosed a list of potential protected players and prospects.

Please call me if you have suggestions for scoring and/or procedural modifications.
